JUNIOR DANCE HAS BEST ATTENDANCE

Many Couples Attend Largest Dance
Of Year—Good Music Furnished
By Jungaleers.

On Friday night, December 14, the much looked for Junior Dance took place. Due to the extremely large number of young ladies and cadets attending; the dance was given in the big gymnasium.

The dance hall was beautifully decorated in purple and gold, streamers and confetti were thrown. The dance was given immediately after the football banquet, so the majority of those who attended the banquet went to the dance also. The grand march was led by Miss Ellen Charnley, of Charlotte, and Cadet Vernon Smith. The Clemson Orchestra furnished exceptionally good music. The Junior Dance was probably the largest dance ever given at Clemson, over seventy girls attended; and a large number of the alumni were present, beside the cadets. The couples attending were.

WANNAMAKER SPEAKS AT CLEMSON COLLEGE

Interesting Lecturer Talks On Italy
—Tells Experiences In that Country—Advises How To Deal With Italy

Italy is a nation about which the average man or woman of today knows very little, but Clemson students were considerably enlightened on that subject when Dr. Olin D. Wannamaker addressed them last Thursday night in the college chapel.

Dr. Wannamaker is a young South Carolinian, having been born at St. Matthews, S. C. He graduated from Wofford College in 1896 thence from Vanderbilt and Harvard. He taught English in Canton Christian College, Canton, China, from 1902 to 1908. He then taught in Groucher College, the University of Arkansas, Alabama Poly., and Southern Methodist University from 1908 to 1918. In 1918 and 1919 he was engaged in war work in Italy. While there he wrote "With Italy in her final War of Liberation." After the World War, he became Executive Secretary with headquarters in New York City of "Princeton-in-Peking," the work of welfare, social betterment, education and religion conducted by Princeton men in Peking, China.

"Mutual misunderstanding between nations," said Dr. Wannamaker, "is what is the matter with the world today. We usually think of Italy in terms of ancient history but Italy of today is far different from Italy of the past. The Italy of today is a great nation and deserves much more praise than she usually receives."

Dr. Wannamaker told of Italy's struggle for independence from 1821 to 1870 and of how she finally won out and set up a republic in 1870. He described how Italy had been "shut-in" by the other nations of Europe and had not been allowed to establish colonies in other lands. "This," he said, "kept Italy down as much as anything else."

With reference to Italy's part in the World War, Dr. Wannamaker said: "Italy defended 435 miles of front of rivers and mountains regions and won the most decisive victory that was ever won over Austria. Italy lost 500,000 men in the war and yet, when her representatives attended the Peace Conference, they got nothing but a cold shoulder."

Dr. Wannamaker paid tribute to ex-President Wilson thus: He is one of the greatest men in history. He did for the world what no other man ever did."

In conclusions, Dr. Wannamaker said: "The present situation in Italy is hopeful, but we must deal with her leniently. She deserves praise for what she has done and should be treated with more respect by the other nations of the earth."

Dr. Wannamaker's address was interesting and instructive to all. Our eyes were opened towards Italy's past as well as her present

FOOTBALL TEAM IS GIVEN BANQUET

Appetites Overcome All Opposition
Many Dishes Downed In Fine
Style

On Friday, December 14 Coach Bud Saunders guided the nineteen twenty-three football champions of South Carolina to the mostly looked forward-to victory of the season. In this undertaking he was ally assisted by his co-worker, Capt. T. E. May, whose every effort was devoted to making the "scrimmage of appetites" a consuming success.

Among the honor guest present at this gala occasion were: Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Riggs, Colonel Reese, Mr. D. H. Henry, Colonel Pearson, and E. G. Parker, alongside of his "forty dollar" overcoat. A number of the men escorted young lady friends, thereby adding much color, as well as enjoyment, to the occasion; while others found their internal desires more keenly pointed for onslaught, than for the pleasures to be derived from basking in the bright smiles of feminine companionship. Be their social opinions what they may, "all-hands" joined readily in the contest for the mastication honors, and great was the damage wrought.

The decorations, by Mrs. Middleton were artistic and pleasing in design. The lower end of the college mess hall was enclosed in curtains, this place being the scene of the banquet. The college colors predominated in the decorations, which were composed chiefly of crepe paper fashioned in various designs.

The dinner was served in the regular order of courses, followed by coffee and smokes. The desert was particularly attractive, in that it embodied the image of a gridiron warrior carrying a football, this being designed in ice cream.

Those participants who occupied regular mess hall stools were very thankful for the omission of the customary after-dinner speakers. Capt. May had the honor of presenting Capt. "Butch" Holahan with a gold watch in appreciation for his leadership of the "Fighting Tigers" thru-out the past season.

In a short, but clear-cut and impressive talk, Coach Saunders expressed his appreciation to the team for their whole hearted co-operation thru out the season, and congratulated them on the successful culmination of the nineteen twenty-three football campaign.

BELOVED PROFESSOR DIES AT HIS HOME

Professor L. A. Sease, Instructor In English At Clemson For Fifteen Years, And An Honored And Admired Member Of The Faculty, Dies At His Home On The Campus

The death of Prof. Lawrence A. Sease came as distinct shock to his family and to his friends. Wednesday, this hale and hearty man was meeting his classes in English, Wednesday at midnight, he was cold in death.

Prof. Lawrence A. Sease was fifty eight years old at the time of his death. He was a member of the first class that graduated from Clemson, receiving his diploma in 1896. Upon finishing college Prof. Sease entered the ranks of education, and for the next twelve years was a teacher in the public schools. During the later part of this period, he was a member of the Board of Trustees of Clemson College. In 1908 Prof. Sease came back to his Alma Mater in the capacity of headmaster of the preparatory department. He served in the position until the department was abandoned. When he had terminated the affairs of this branch of the college, Prof. Sease accepted a position on the faculty of Clemson College as Instructor in English. Since that time Prof. Sease has held the position faithfully. Prof. Sease, at the time of his death, was the oldest alumnus of Clemson College.

Thursday afternoon a memorial service was held in the college chapel in the honor of the deceased. Prof. S. B. Earle, Prof. D. W. Daniel, Cadet E. H. Hall and Prof. A. B. Bryan delivered brief eulogies in which they mourned the loss of a Professor, who was held in high esteem by his fellow-workers, and by his students. The service was conducted by Rev. John McSweeney and Rev. George Zachary. Classes were suspended for the afternoon in order that the student body might attend.

Friday morning the body was taken to Prof. Sease's old home, Prosperity, S. C. Representatives from the faculty and from the corps of cadets accompanied the body to the place of the burial. The funeral was held at 1 o'clock Friday. Floral offerings were in profusion. A beautiful wreath in purple and gold was contributed by the student body. Cadets attending the funeral were: H. S. Singley, W. F. Covin, C. E. Hawkins, and H. A. Hartzog. These four cadets along with Prof. Klugh and Mr. Fellows acted as pall-bearers. The funeral service was beautiful in its simplicity.

Prof. Sease is survived by his wife, and by one daughter, Helen Sease, who is teaching school in Clinton. His death came as a great blow to all, and a spirit of sadness has hung over the campus since his death. He was a gentleman, a thorough teacher, and a man of sterling qualities. His death leaves a vacant place that cannot be

ALL OUT FOR PEP MEETING!

We must get together once more, gang, for a real, old time pep meeting. It will be held in the college chapel on Thursday night immediately after supper. There will be one or two short talks by good speakers. Clemson's athletic record for the past year will be given in full, and plans for the future will be outlined. We will have some roof-raising yells, and everybody must bring a barrel full of PEP for the occasion. Come one, come all, and get pepped up for the holidays. Get a basket ready so you can carry home with you a liberal supply of REAL TIGER SPIRIT.

PROFESSOR LAWRENCE

ANDREW SEASE

The passing of this good, hearty, great-hearted gentleman throws a pall of sorrow and regret over our campus. One of the pillars of the institution for more than fifteen years, having served first on the board of trustees and later as a member of the faculty, he was of inestimable value to Clemson. Everyone who has ever attended his classes loved and admired Professor Sease for his honesty of purpose and his kindness toward the students.

He always had a hearty welcome for anyone whom he chanced to meet. The cadets admired him for that greeting, because it was the outward expression of a Christian gentleman's soul. No greater tribute could be paid any man than was paid by the head of the English department. Dr. Daniel said of him, "He did his work well and was faithful in everything connected with his work at Clemson."

One of his distinctions lay in the fact that he was Clemson's oldest living alumnus, although he was, at the time of his death, only fifty-eight years old. The Federal Board students, whom he had been teaching for the past two years declared that they would rather go to Professor Sease than to any other instructor, and insisted that he be allowed to teach them. On one occasion they presented him with a handsome watch as a mark of appreciation of his splendid work with them.

He was affectionately called "King" on the campus, and the choice of a name reveals the type of man that Prof. Sease was. He was a king among men and a man whom the institution is proud to call "a son of Clemson."

A BUSY CHRISTMAS

We are naturally busy enjoying ourselves during the holidays, but there are some things we can do to help make Christmas pleasant for others. The motto of the Christmas spirit is "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Let us try to live up to this motto and stay at home will be the most satisfactory one we have ever had.

To our parents belongs first consideration. They are responsible for the opportunity that we have of being college students. Too often we show too little appreciation of the efforts and sacrifices they make to give us a college education. If, when we go home, we will tell our mothers and fathers about our college life, the pleasures, the funny experiences, the athletic contests, our courses of study, and our hopes and ambitions, it will please them perhaps more than we can imagine. We can stay at home some and talk to the folks as well as run around with our boy and girl friends. Thousands of boys have said, "I never realized what a companion my dad was and what a confidant my mother was—how much they meant to me, until it was too late." We can learn something from other men and not attend "Experience's School" for our education, so let's throw our bouquets while we can give somebody pleasure by doing so.

Another thing we must remember is that we can do something for Clemson. We won't have another chance to bring some good high school graduates up here, like the chance we'll have during the holidays. Talk to them while you're at home and tell them what a fine college we have. Show them the advantages of attending an institution that has the educational advantages, the college spirit, and the clean athletics that Clemson has. Tell them about the athletic record that Clemson teams have made during the past year. Talk Clemson to them and give them an opportunity to find out everything about our college, so they can decide to come up here next fall. Remember that we need "A—No. 1" students as well as "A—No. 1" athletes at Clemson.

Have the best time you ever had in your life and try to give some of your pleasure to everyone with whom you come in contact. And by the way—don't forget to go to see your girl—you know she'll appreciate it!

KEEPING CHRISTMAS.

It is a good thing to observe Christmas Day. The mere marking of times and seasons, when men agree to stop work and make merrily together is a wise and wholesome custom. It helps one feel the supremacy of the common life over the individual life. It reminds a man to set his own little watch, now and then, by the great clock of humanity which runs on sun time.

"But there is a better thing than the observance of Christmas Day, and that is keeping Christmas. Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people and to remember what other people have done for you; to ignore what the world owes you and to think what you owe the world; to put your rights in the back ground, and your duties in the middle distance, and your chances to do a little more than your duty in the foreground; to see that your fellow-men are just as real as you are, and try to look behind their faces to their hearts hungry for joy; to own that probably the only good reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life, but what you are going to give to life; to close your book of complaints against the management of the universe, and look around you for a place where you can sow a few seeds of happiness? Are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

"Are you willing to stoop down and consider the needs and the desires of little children; to remember the wakeness and loneliness of people who are growing old; to stop asking how much your friends love you and ask yourself whether you love them enough; to bear in mind the things that other people have to bear on their hearts; to try to understand what those who live in the same house with you really want, without waiting for them to tell you; to trim your lamp so that it will give more light and less smoke, and to carry it in front so that your shadow will fall behind you; to make a grave for your ugly thoughts and a garden for your kindly feelings, with the gate open? Are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

"Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world, stronger than hate, stronger than evil, stronger than death, and that the blessed life that began in Bethlehem nineteen hundred years ago is the image and brightness of Eternal Love? Then you can keep Christmas.

"And if you keep it for a day, why not always?

But you can never keep it alone."

WITH THE EXCHANGES

We have read and enjoyed many college papers from other colleges during the last four months. We have not had an opportunity to criticize all of them, but we will undertake to mention those which have attracted our special attention.

THE DAVIDSONIAN is one of the best weeklies that we've seen this year. This paper has a good balance between athletic news and campus activities. For a school that has the small number of students that Davidson has, the staff of the "Davidsonian" deserves much credit for their paper.

THE EMORY WHEEL is one of the largest papers edited by a southern college staff, despite the fact that Emory does not have intercollegiate athletics in all branches of sport, the staff publishes an interesting and complete account of student activities at that institution.

THE BLUESTOCKING is among the best of the South Carolina college newspapers. P. C. has a small student body and this probably accounts for the fact that the "Bluestocking" is only published once every fortnight. We enjoy the paragraph editorials that appear in the columns of this paper.

THE GAMECOCK, the weekly published by the literary societies at the University of South Carolina, is a paper that shows the application of literary talent as well as reportorial ability. We note that the staff devotes much space to club activities among the students. This is a desirable feature as it always holds the interest of the students.

THE RED AND BLACK is always an interesting paper, but it seems to devote quite a bit of space to fraternity activities every week. It seems to us that they should run a fraternity column to take care of this branch of news. The feature articles under the title "Sailing the Sportanic Seas" are very good.

"MOTHER MID."

The cadets have no truer friend at Clemson than our matron, Mrs. M. E. Middleton, affectionately called "Mother Mid." She has always been a warm friend of any boy who goes to see her, and shows her affection for the boys in many little things that she does for us. Few of us realize that all of the pretty flowers that decorate our tables in the mess hall are the work of her kind hands.

If it were not for "Mother Mid" we couldn't have the beautiful decorations which cause so much favorable comment and so many delightful exclamations from the young ladies at our Junior-Senior banquet. All the decorations for the big social event are put up by the decorating committee of the Junior class, under her personal supervision and with her helping hand. She wants us to be proud of our up-to-date mess hall when visitors come to Clemson.

The Junior-Senior reception would really not be any reception at all were it not for the decorations. We wouldn't care to bring our girls up here if we had to omit the festive attire.

The purple and gold decorations for the football team at their banquet were a sight for anybody's eyes. The bonbon baskets and the artificial chrysanthemums, alternately purple and gold, would have done credit to any interior decorator. The men on the team and the other guests gave much praise to "whoever made these pretty things." The artist was none other than our own "Mother Mid," who with the help of some of the cadets worked for a week in preparation for the banquet.

Few people know Clemson as our matron knows it. She has been here for a number of years and has two sons who have graduated from the college since she has been here. It was thru "Mother Mid's" tireless efforts that we have our piano in the mess hall. She secured contributions that no one else could have gotten, and in a short time after the campaign was begun, the piano was a fixture in our dining hall.

We should do everything in our power to make our matron's life among us as pleasant as it can be—we should be courteous and considerate toward her, as any real gentleman would, and remember that she appreciates it as your mother would and mine.

MR. AND MRS. FADELY ENTERTAIN ANIMAL HUSBANDRY SENIORS

On last Monday evening section Five Seniors better known as "The Bulls," were entertained at an informal dinner by Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Fadely at their home on the campus.

At eight o'clock all the guests had assembled. They were then ushered into the dining-room where they beheld a table laden with good things to eat. The boys then fell to work, and needless to say they did full justice to the repast. After the table was cleared coffee, cake and smokes were served, then an hour of conversation was indulged in. Nine o'clock came all too soon to suit the boys for they were reluctant to depart. The hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Fadely was enjoyed and appreciated by all. The occasion will long be remembered by those present.

MEMBERSHIP CERTIFICATES ARE DISTRIBUTED

For the past week the "Y" has been giving out the membership cards so that they could be used, in case of necessity, during the Christmas holidays. In some cases some of the names were overlooked but any student who did not get his card can obtain it from the desk any time this week. Due to the rush in getting out the great number of membership certificates, several errors in names and initials were made, but they will gladly be connected by either "Holtzy" or "Robbie" at any time.

The memberships are of two types, active and associate. The following rules, as set down by "Holtzy," are the requirements of the two different kinds of members:

ACTIVE MEMBERSHIP REQUIREMENTS

- I. Members of evangelical churches. (Every church represented here with the exception of the Catholic, Jewish, Unitarian, and Universalist ineligible).
- II. Subscribe to the Object of the Association:
  - (a) To lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ.
  - (b) To lead them into membership and service in the Christian church.
  - (c) To promote their growth in Christian Faith and Character, especially through the study of the Bible and prayer.
  - (d) To influence them to devote themselves in united effort with all Christians to making the Will of Christ effective in human society and to extending the kingdom of God throughout the world.
- III. Active Members should attend Morning watch, Bible class, Sunday School and Vesper service.

ASSOCIATE MEMBERSHIP

- I. Non-church members.
- II. Members of non-evangelical churches.
- III. In sympathy with Y. M. C. A. movement and does not subscribe to Y. M. C. A. object. Any cadet may be an associate member.

ADVANTAGES OF ACTIVE MEMBERSHIP

- I. Shows that one is a Christian.
- II. Gives secretaries to whom you present your card a higher opinion of you.
- III. Gives one more consideration in Y. M. C. A's.
- IV. Right to vote at election of officers.
- V. An indication that a man is willing to do Christian service, and in this way leads men into channels of Christian service.

SMITH-VERNER WEDDING AN #### EVENT OF WIDE SOCIAL INTEREST THRU OUT THE ENTIRE CORPS.

One of the most charming events of the present social season was the wedding, on last Thursday evening, of Miss Fredericks Vernon Hortense Smith to Mr. Johnathan Verner.

Both of these popular young people occupied prominent social positions at Clemson and the entire cadet corps extends best wishes for a successful voyage on the good ship, matrimony.

Neither time, efforts, nor expense was spared in making this lovely occasion, the bright light of the social year.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride promptly at seven o'clock, in cell No. 130 on M. Company avenue.

The aisle way becomingly lined on either side with sweet-scented green horns and ivory heads.

A large assemblage of friends gathered early to avoid the rush. Many pounds of Spark Plug were consumed while the expectant guests waited eagerly for the appearance of the bridal celestials.

First to enter beneath the arch of transom wood were the dainty little flower girls, Misses Patricia Harmon, and Josephene Sanders, who scattered rabbit tobacco and dog weed at random. Next to enter was the blushing bride, upon the arm of her adoring uncle, Captain Octavius Oberg, who gave her in matrimony.

Next to enter was the matron of honor, Mrs. B. L. Melton Murr, accompanied by the lovely bridesmaids Misses Copeland and Hodges; the latter being the loving cell mate of the about-to-be matron.

Next to enter was the handsome groom accompanied by his best man, Mr. Rang Rodgers and the other groom's men Messrs. "Doc" Melton, Squarehead Prouse, "Specks" Turner and "Strupper" Phiefer. The groom was becomingly clad in a dress coat that had deviated from the left wing of its tail, and a pair of gorgeously embroidered burlap trousers.

The ceremony was performed in an impressive manner by Rabbi Blackenstine. Thru out the entire performance various vocal numbers were rendered by Cartwright and Bootsie Gaston, accompanied by rat Egg Glasses on a mouth organ.

Immediately after the wedding the young couple were delighted to receive the congratulations of their many friends at a lovely reception in the Seneca Driving Club at the lower end of the North Wing. Those receiving with the happily annexed pair were: Misses Steamboat Hamilton, Bobbie Fortenberry Bull Dog Owens and "Ickey" Friar.

The gentlemen in the receiving line were: Messrs. Quinn, Oliver, Chandler and "Rat" Phiefer.

The punch bowl was lovingly attended by little Miss Madison Wallace.

Immediately after the reception

the young bride and groom departed for "parts unknown" where it is hoped that they will have a happy honeymoon.

We all wish them well.

Real Service Must Be Engineered

Many of the men whose names are writ large in engineering history are design engineers; men like Westinghouse, Lamme, Stanley, Hodgkinson, Tesla, Shallenberger. Their inventions have the quality of usefulness, of reliability, of productability; which is an involved way, perhaps, of saying that they have the primary requisite of all really great inventions: Serviceability.

Engineering history abounds in instances of near-genius that produced no product, and of great developments that never reached completion; and most of these instances are explained by the lack, somewhere in the system, of that ability to give real Service.

Service, in a machine or a system, or wherever you find it, is not there by accident but because it was incorporated by men who understood what was required and knew how to provide it.

Much more is required of the designer than facility in calculation and mastery of theory. He must have first hand and thorough familiarity with manufacturing operations and with commercial and operating conditions. It takes more than mere ingenuity and inventiveness to design apparatus that will be really serviceable and will "stay put."

The design engineer, in the Westinghouse plant, is responsible for the performance of the finished product. He cannot possibly have the proper understanding of operation unless he operates and tests, unless he spends time and thought in investigation and study, not in the laboratory or drawing room, but right on the operating job. Here, most of his ideas will develop; and here he will see and prepare for all the different things which the product will later have to encounter. Then when he comes to put his creations on paper, his calculations will be necessary and helpful to check the conclusions which he has reached, and this right use of them requires training and a high degree of understanding. This proper balance of the physical and mathematical conception of things is what constitutes engineering judgement.

It should be thoroughly understood that the primary function of the design engineer is the conception and the production of new or improved apparatus, and familiarity with the practical is essential to the proper discharge of this duty.

It is this view of designing that makes this branch of Westinghouse engineering so important, so effective, and so productive of real developments.

A 2nd Lieutenant's Prayer
Now I lay me down to sleep.
I pray the Lord my eyes to keep
And if they should fail to wake,
I pray that Sargeant Peck be late.

The Flapper's Prayer
I want the lights that brightly shine,
I want the men, I want the wine:
I want the fun without the price.
I want to be naughty and still be nice.
I want the thrill of a long drawn kiss,
I want the arms and heart of a man,
And still stay single if I can.
What I want is some good advice.
On how to be naughty and still be nice.

The Answer
You can't have the lights, the men,
the wine,
Without paying the price, little friend of mine.
You can't have the thrill of a passionate kiss,
Without some forfeit or risk.
Arms, yes; those you can have every day.
Hearts, no. You see, men don't love that way.
Are you really looking for good advice?
Then, if you are bound to be naughty, don't try to be nice.

Lt. Durfee—"Speaking of cavalry, a man can out walk a horse."
Bill Anderson—"A man might can out walk a horse, but he sure can't out walk a mule 'cause I have walked behind them."

He—"Can I call you by your first name?"
She—"Yes, if I can call myself by your last."
—Ex.

Farmer selling a mule—"Yes, this is a fine mule; there's nothing the matter with him."

So the other farmer took the mule, but came back the next day saying: "I thought you said there was nothing the matter with that mule. Why that mule is blind; he just ran into a stone wall with my buggy."

First farmer: "That mule ain't blind, he just don't give a dam."

Jack—"Naw, that girl ain't still nowhere." —Boll Weevil.

THE CRAVEN

Once upon an evening dreary,
While I pondered sad and weary,
O'er many a fond and pleasant memory of the year before;
While I wondered, filled with longing,
I heard an old familiar warning,
A warning by the sentinel, walking post outside the door,
"The Army is inspecting"—only this and nothing more.

Ah, distinctly I remember
'Twas the third day of December
And the wind howled loud and sullen through the hall outside the door;
Eagerly I waited the bell,
Wishing the Army were in bed,
Wishing—but here I stopped abruptly
For in accents loud and clear,
Came the challenge of the sentinel:
Walking post outside the door

"All right." Then the answer.
Nothing more.

The sizzling, sobbing sputter of the radiator's mutter
Filled me, filled the room with echoes, often heard by me before,
And the voice so harsh, demanding "All right" in a tone commanding
Saying, "You'd better be at reveille If you don't want to walk most cheerily."

Claggett—Taps inspection—Nothing more.

Then I begged with him and pleaded
Saying, "Must I?" I entreated
"Can't I sleep a little longer? with my heart I thee implore
Tell me Capt. Claggett, tell me e'er you close the door?
Must I be at reveille? Then I'll be there." Nothing more.

The long night passed in fitful slumbering,
Broken by the soundless mumbling Of this phrase—"You can not beat out anymore."

I awoke, startled, hearing,
My first sergeant's voice, as nearing,
The completion of his roll—my name.

An echo answered—Busted. Nothing more.

So that now, What e'er the reason,
Whether good or bad the season
Whether rain or fairest sunshine fills the world outside the door
I must waken from my reverie, and respond always at reveille,
For Capt. Claggett has me gapping.

Poet Corners Girls.

Don't run away from us stranger,
Just because we look mad,
Come listen to our story,
It's true, but it is sad.
We are just back from Central,
I, and my pal, Burris, A.
We've been to a football game,
At Central High School today.
Burris, A. had a girl named Gladys,
She wasn't so very tough;
She was only red haired and cross-eyed,
And he couldn't go to see her enough.

Along came another Clemson Cadet,
Young and handsome, they say;
He was a long haired poet
And stole the girl fro Burris, A.
Now that was a sad social happening,
But he couldn't write poetry like Plowden
The poet who stole the girl away.

MR GALLAGER AND MR. SHEAN

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
Did you see the Tigers when they played this year?
It was in the Auburn game,
That the Tigers won their fame,
And all the people came from far and near.

Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean,
I think I know the game that you mean.

They played till almost night,
I watched the Tigers fight.
Was it Robbie M. Gallager?
And Pat Harmon Mr. Shean.

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
Did you see the Tigers play the Newberry game?
The scrubs played that day,
And they took that game away,
And the Tigers roared and roared just the same.

Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean,
They won that game I'll almost bet a bean.
They played from left to right,
I yelled with all my might.
For Newberry Mr. Galager?
No, the Tigers Mr. Shean.

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
Did you know the Tigers went to Centre to play?
They gave old Centre a fright,
For they played with all their might,
But the luck was all against us on that day.

Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean,
They say the Tigers had a lot of steam.

It was in the first quarter of play,
That we touchdown-ed that day.
Was it Gillie, Mr. Gallager?
Why it was Williams Mr. Shean.

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
I thought that I saw you at the fair,
We pulled the Gamecock's tail,
They wanted to put us in jail.
The Gamecock wished we had not tarried there.

Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean,
They won that game I'll almost bet a bean.
They played from left to right,

I yelled with all my might.
For Newberry, Mr. Gallager?
No, the Tigers, Mr. Shean.

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
Did you know the Tigers went to Centre to play?
They gave old Centre a fright,
For they played with all their might,
But the luck was all against us on day.

Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean,
They say the Tigers had a lot of steam.

It was in the first quarter of play,
That we touchdown-ed that day.
Was it Gillie, Mr. Gallager?
Why it was Williams, Mr. Shean.

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
I thought that I saw you at the fair,
We pulled the Game Cock's tail,
They wanted to put us in jail.
The Game Cock wished we had not tarried there.

Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean,
I saw the game that I think you mean.
I almost held my breath,
The feathers flew right and left.
Who pulled them, Mr. Gallager?
Why Robbie, Mr. Shean.

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
It was at V. P. I. that we lost our second game.

With you, I'll be fear,
It made me shead a tear,
To see the Tiger fight so hard in vain.

V. P. I. we know has a very strong team.

We made a touch-down that game,
Williams won his fame.
Thru a fluke, Mr. Gallager?
Thru the line, Mr. Shean.

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
It was Davidson we played another time.

It made them aufully sore,
When they saw the score,
And thought of how we had gained thru their line.

Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean,
It was of that game I had a dream,
I saw Robbie almost fall,

When he tried to kick the ball.
Where did it go, Mr. Gallager?
Between the posts, Mr. Shean.

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
We played P. C. and also put them in a jam.
Gillie was not there,
But Griffin made us cheer.
He ran that team like he didn't give a damn.

Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean,
That was the best game I have ever seen,
Before or ever since,
I'll say it was a cinch.

Who won it, Mr. Gallager?
Why the Tigers, Mr. Shean.

Oh Mr. Gallager, Oh Mr. Gallager,
It has not been long since Furman changed a name.
In Greenville we had the fun,
We made the "Hurricane" run,
We upset the dope and also won us fame.

Oh Mr. Shean, Oh Mr. Shean,
It was there that I heard something scream,
The papers told not truth,
The hurricane was a poof.
Did we beat Furman, Mr. Gallager?
We're State Champs, Mr. Shean.

LT. COL. R. I. REES INSPECTS REGIMENT

Officer In Charge United States R. O. T. C. Visits Clemson—Speech In Chapel And Parade Are Features Of Inspection—Praises Dr Riggs

The first official inspection of the R. O. T. C. unit at Clemson College was held on Friday, Dec. 14, when Lt. Colonel Robert I. Rees, of the General staff in Washington, and officer in command of the R. O. T. C. Department of the country, made a formal inspection of the regiment. Col. Rees's visit to Clemson was a signal honor to the college because of the fact that he only has time to visit the colleges where the most complete and best organized units of the Reserve Officers Training Corps are stationed.

He was introduced to the corps of cadets by Dr. Riggs at chapel services on Friday morning; and after his introduction made a short and interesting speech. He said that he was glad to visit Clemson because of the fact that he and Dr. W. M. Riggs, president of Clemson College, had been very closely associated in educational work among the A. E. F. in France during the World War. He said of our president, "Dr. Riggs was one of the towers of strength in our conferences in Washington, and was one of a half dozen men who made the post-war educational program in France a success."

In his speech, Col. Rees spoke of the plans for world peace that are under consideration and said, "peace will come only when good will replaces selfishness." And again he urged, "we should support all good things which will promote harmony among the nations of the world." In talking about the methods by which peace may be secured to America he said, "The peace of our nation depends upon the respect which other nations render us. That respect will be given only insofar as our conduct is deserving of it."

Col. Rees then impressed upon the Clemson cadets the great importance of the R. O. T. C. He said that it is the foundation of our national defense, since it is an organization founded in time of peace for the purpose of organizing a corps of efficient officers. In giving figures for the number of men in the various divisions of the country's defense organization, Col. Rees said that last year there were 103,000 men in the R. O. T. C. and this year there are 115,000 men as compared with 112,000 in the regular army, 130,000 in the National Guard, and 70,000 in the organized civilian reserves.

All the cadets and faculty enjoyed his interesting talk.

At the regular drill hour on Friday there was an escort of the colors and a regimental parade in honor of Col. Rees. Then after the parade, Battalion and company drill was held. Col. Rees was one of the guests at the football team's banquet Friday night and was later a guest of the junior dancing club at a dance in the big gymnasium.

Col. Rees seemed to be very much impressed by the organization and drill of the R. O. T. C. Unit at Clemson, and the officers at the institution hope that he will have a favorable report to make upon his return to headquarters.

TIGER BASKETEERS MAKE MUCH HEADWAY

Basketball Candidates Have Good Practice — Men Showing Good Stuff—Tiger Quint Schedule is Out

Some twenty-five or thirty basketball men have been working out daily for the past three weeks, getting in shape for the cage season which opens officially at Clemson on January 5. Either Coach "Bud" Saunders or Captain T. E. May has been in charge of the basketeers ever since the football season closed, and the men are beginning to round into condition.

During the early portion of the practice season, only light workouts were held with no scrimmage. In the last few days, however, scrimmage has been added to the program, and the candidates are getting a test under fire of actual contest.

Five basketball letter men are candidates for the team. They are Captain Charlie Garrison, "Pinky" Colbert, J. B. Wertz, "Gilly" Dotterer, and Jack Chandler. These men form the nucleus of the squad. Other leading members of the squad are Cobb, Bunch, Welling, Vaughan, Roy, Whilden, Faris, Hagood, Johnson, Klugh, Silcox, Creighton, Smith and Phipps.

The Tiger cage quintet made an impressive record last winter, winning the state championship and making an excellent showing against teams from out of the state. Clemson is counting on the present five to make an even better showing by nailing the state title to the Tiger flag-pole again and in addition to defeat some of the strong teams of the South and make a good showing at the Conference tournament in Atlanta.

The schedule, which is now complete except for three games, includes games against Tech, Georgia, North Carolina State, and various South Carolina teams to be played here. Trips will be made to Atlanta and Athens, besides an extended trip into Tennessee and Kentucky. The season opens on January 5 with Georgia Tech furnishing the opposition here, and ends with the Southern Conference Tournament in Atlanta.

A game with the University of Florida to be played here and two games with Wofford will be scheduled and the dates fixed in the near future. Except for these contests, the Clemson schedule is as follows:

- Jan. 5. Georgia Tech at Clemson.
- Jan. 11 University of Georgia at Clemson.
- Jan. 12 Spartanburg Y. M. C. A. at Spartanburg.
- Jan. 16 University of Georgia at Athens.
- Jan. 19. South Carolina at Clemson.
- Jan. 22 Furman at Clemson.
- Jan. 23. Presbyterian College at Clemson.
- Jan. 31. North Carolina State at Clemson
- Feb. 1. Newberry at Newberry.
- Feb. 2. Presbyterian College at Clinton.
- Feb. 8 Georgia Tech in Atlanta.
- Feb. 13. University of Kentucky At Lexington.
- Feb. 14. Georgetown College at Georgetown, Ky.
- Feb. 15 Maryville at Maryville. Tenn.
- Feb. 16 Tennessee at Knoxville.
- Feb. 22 Newberry at Clemson.
- Feb. 26 Furman at Greenville.

WISE CRACKS

By "Wee Willie."

The crude attempts at wit and humor, by some people, are indeed deplorable. The funniest man I ever heard was one who did not try to impress you as being funny. Some people are paid for being witty, others get the fruit. Being humorous is a gift, and is accompanied by a well developed mind.

In spite of the fact that our daily newspapers have a funny sheet, some of our third-class, amateur humorists save their funny stuff for the Tiger. I'm sure the Tiger doesn't appreciate the attempt made by some of our novice humorist. If you're naturally funny join hands with O. B. Keeler and "Uncle Billy," and go on your way rejoicing. Don't try to put your one cylinder wind stuff across, it won't go. "Drippings from the Still" a fine heading, eh? Ever heard of

ATHLETIC COUNCIL AWARDS LETTERS

Fifteen Football Block "C's" And Five Cross Country Letters Awarded—Freshman Football Men Awarded Numerals—Athletic Association Makes New Plans

Football Block "C's", monograms, and numerals and cross-country Block "C's" were awarded by a recent meeting of the Athletic Council. Other matters of business were also attended to, including the completion of the football schedule except for one date.

The following 'varsity football men won the much coveted football "C" during the season just ended: Captain R. F. Holohan, Captain-elect C. A. Robinson, E. G. Dotterer, G. I. Finklea, R. L. Griffin, S. E. Harmon, S. L. Jackson, F. V. Strother, A. B. Tennant, C. C. Garrison, J. E. Walker, J. B. Wertz, W. B. Williams, G. C. Wilson, and S. S. Bee, manager.

Manager S. S. Bee was complimented very highly by Prof. Herny, who stated that Bee was one of the most efficient managers the football team had ever had.

The 1924 football schedule was completed, except for one date on Sept. 27, by the scheduling of a game with the Citadel for November 15, this contest to be staged either at Clemson or Anderson. A committee of citizens from Anderson attended the Athletic Council meeting to try to get the Clemson-Citadel game for the Anderson County Fair. Anderson is planning to build a new football field and stadium to be opened next fall, and the Anderson Rotarians, Lion's Club, and American Legion want to get the Clemson-Citadel game to open this field. No decision has been made yet as to whether the game will be played at Clemson or Anderson, but the Athletic Council appointed a committee to decide the question.

The Athletic Council decided to employ a Freshman coach next season who will use Coach "Bud" Saunders' method with the "rats," thus giving them greater possibilities when they become candidates for the 'varsity eleven. Just who this Freshmen coach will be is not yet known, but it is not unlikely that he will be selected from the graduating members of this season's Tiger football team.

The Athletic Association was found to be in much better financial condition now than at this time last year.

A committee was appointed to revise the present rules for the awarding of Block "C's" to Clemson athletes. —W. W. B.

THE CALHOUN LITERARY SOCIETY

The saying, "duty before pleasure," proved to be a true one last Friday evening. Yes, there was a bevy of girls, on the campus, pretty ones too, but not quite pretty enough to attract the members of the Calhoun Literary Society from the regular meeting. At 6:15 o'clock, president Shannon called the society to order and Mr. Moore led the members in prayer. The secretary then called the roll and found that there was quite a large crowd present in spite of the social event which was taking place that evening.

The regular program then began. Mr. Hall, the orator, had for his subject, "Life." As usual, Mr. Hall acquitted himself creditably. The essayist, Mr. Moore, chose as the subject of his essay, "New Profanity." Mr. Moore's production was not only instructive but it was also very interesting. Then came the climax of the meeting; namely, the debate. The subject under discussion was: Resolved, that fraternities are detrimental to the best interests of Clemson College. Mr. Sisk and Mr. Faust upheld the affirmative while Messrs. Jordan and Wells supported the negative. The manner in which these men argued their respective side of the question should showed that they had spent ample time in preparing themselves for the occasion. Bringing out many interesting points, these men held the attention of the audience during the entire time of their talks. However, when the judge's decision was rendered, the society found that affirmative side was the winner.

The president then asked if there were any petitions for membership, and the following men presented their names: Messrs. Jackson, R. E. Lemon, J. N. and Farmer, W. E. As these men were accepted by the society, they came forward and took the oath of membership.

Besides the regular members of the society there were a few strangers present. The President called upon these men for extemporaneous speeches. These men responded in a very clever manner; one visitor making the following statement: "I can openly say that this is the best society at Clemson. Fellows Members let us turn out for each and every future meeting. If we do this, we can put our society in its legal place; namely, on top."

At the completion of the president's talk, there was nothing further to be said or done, so the society adjourned. —T. G. R.

TEXTILE STUDENTS HAVE GOOD PROGRAM

Prominent Men In Textile Industry Address Monthly Meeting Of Textile Society

Thursday night the December meeting of the Textile Society was held. The entire meeting was devoted to speeches, which were delivered by Mr. Philips, Associate Editor of "Cotton," and by Mr. Morrison, Greenville representative of a national starch company.

The talk given by Mr. Morrison was a technical one dealing with the manufacture of starch, and the use of the different types of starch in cotton mill work. Mr. Philips made a very interesting talk in which he discussed the Textile graduate's duties in the cotton mill. The theme of Mr. Philip's talk was the fact that to be successful, a cotton mill man must have a personality, he must be able to hold the respect of his employees, and he must be able to employ only the right types of labor.

These two addresses were very interesting, and were well received by the Society. The plan of the Society to invite speakers to the monthly meetings is meeting with such success, and the meetings are being well attended as a result. If you are a Textile man, and have not been coming to the meetings, come up next month. Your time will be profitably spent.

LECTURES AT CLEMSON

During the collegiate year the student body of Clemson has the opportunity to hear speeches, lectures, and addresses delivered by the most prominent men, by the best educated men, and by the most influential men of the times. Education, law, government, travel, people, customs, science, militarism, all of these topics are discussed every year for the benefit of the students, and by the ablest men. Are any benefits being derived? Is any knowledge previously unknown being acquired. If not, it is the fault of the student. For one to hear Gov. McLeod discuss the affairs of the state, or to hear Dr. Carver explain the sciences, and not be benefited is impossible. We are here to learn, to be taught, to acquire wisdom. Strict attention to the lectures delivered for the benefit of the students in chapel will be almost an education in itself.

CLEMSON METHODISTS PLAN $50,000 CHURCH

Anderson, Dec. 18.—Erection of a new $50,000 Methodist church at Clemson college to replace the present structure which has served the congregation of that church for some twelve or more years, will probably begin in March of 1924, it became known today through Rev. A. E. Holler presiding elder of the this district of the church.

Although final plans have not as yet been worked out regarding the award of the contract, etc., it is virtually assured that the construction work will be started in the early spring of the coming year. Rev. Holler stated. He added that the majority of the amount necessary for the erection of the church is already in sight.

Specification as contained in the plans prepared for the structure by the firm of Casey & Fant, local architects, provide for a very modern structure of brick. An excellent Sunday school room will be provided in addition to a department for boys. In other respects the structure will compare favorably with the most modern structures of the kind.

Although no decision has been arrived at regarding the location of the church, it is expected that it will occupy the site upon which is located the present building.

Rev. J. D. Holler, brother of Rev. A. E. Holler of this city, is pastor of the Methodist church at Clemson.—The Piedmont (Greenville.)

Dr. And Mrs. Calhoun Entertain Agricultural Seniors—All Have Delightful Time

The Agricultural Seniors were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. F. H. H. Calhoun at Christmas dinners last week. The men were invited out in three groups on Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday evening respectively. There was one hundred per cent attendance on each occasion.

Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun upheld their reputation as delightful hosts and did everything in their power to make the seniors enjoy themselves. The boys were made to feel at their ease and as is always the case, this added much to their enjoyment.

Turkey dinners were served on each occasion, Christmas cards bearing the names of the men being placed at their respective seats. All of the accessories that go with a real turkey dinner were present, and the boys did full justice to the dinners. After dinner was over the guests were taken into the living room, where they participated in informal discussions. Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun have both travelled extensively and are both extremely interesting talkers.

Mrs. Calhoun is connected with several women's organizations throughout the state, and Dr. Calhoun's work takes him to practically every part of the state. Their numerous acquaintances and mutual friends of the host's and the cadets' gave opportunity for pleasant and interesting conversations.

Entertainments like these are always enjoyable diversions for students—and refreshments are doubly enjoyable at any time. The Agricultural seniors take this opportunity to express to Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun their appreciation and thanks.

THE LIFE OF AN OPERATOR

There's nothing on earth like the tropical climate to drive a man into poetical terms of thought. One of our subscribers down in the Canal Zone finding his line of thought somewhat overloaded put it into form thusly:

Each day and night as I climb the ladder,

Up into my Booth for my films to gather,
To inspect my films, to run one by one,
To give my audience, Thrills, Laughter, and Fun.
The reel was good the music grand,
The People laughing to beat the band.
The next reel went on, it was very poor indeed,
The people yelled, a new operator we need,
The story was poor, the Projection fine,
But the people blamed the operator every time.
If the Picture stopped it was the operator's fault,
And the people would like to put him in a vault;
They do not realize, the films he does not make,
But the films given him he must take,
And if the films are bad, good, or fine
The operator catches Hell nearly every time.
To the operator no credit is given,
And he must stagger on to make a livin',
The people like to find fault about things,
And all their faults to the operator they bring,
A correct answer he must give every time,
Be it movies, music or questions of rhyme.
To the operator the world seems unfair,
Until he gets so he don't give a care,
And out to get another job he does go,
To where, the world will only know.
